Jackson County EMA Director/Flood Plain Administrator Robert Czechlewski and EMA Deputy Director Samantha Brooks were present for the first open public hearing for the adoption of the new flood plain damage reduction regulations for Jackson County, which is a revision on what was adopted 10 years ago. There was only two changes to the regulations which read as follows: (a)Substantial damage also means flood related damage sustained by a structure on two (2) separate occasions during a 10-year period for which the cost of repairs at the time of each such flood event, on the average, equals or exceeds 25 percent of the market value of the structure before the damage occurred, and (b) Where flood protection elevation data are not available the structure shall have the lowest floor, including basement, elevated at least two feet above the highest adjacent natural grade. The cities and villages will not have to do any updates until the county updates the maps again, which was done last in December 2009. ODNR is waiting on funding, so it will possibly be a few years before the next map update. The second public hearing regarding this matter is scheduled for July 10th @ 9:00 a.m.

Mr. Czechlewski also stated that he is looking into grants for a project called Climavision, which is small weather radars and may be beneficial for Jackson County.
